You can't add any more hours to your day so learning to manage your time more effectively will help you plan your work more efficiently and ensure deadlines are met. Managing time effectively is a particularly crucial ingredient in successful projects. It is important to manage both your personal and professional lives because as much as you try to keep them separate they cannot help but infringe upon one another. Managing your own time will not only benefit you but those around you as well.

The busy man only can manage to do many things, which seem to be beyond the reach of ordinary persons. The life of great leaders teaches us one lesson. They have to do many things in spite of their busy schedule. The secret therefore lies in scientific management of time. When a person says that he has no time, what he really means is that he is unable to manage his time properly. The idea of time management has been in existence for more than 100 years. The term time management should not be misunderstood as time can be managed. In fact time can't be managed. By time management what we mean is we need to manage ourselves according to the time.

Time management is actually self-management. The skills that we need to manage others are the same skills that are required to manage ourselves. Namely, the ability to plan, organizes, direct and control.
